Cleveland and Whitney.

For some time past it has been apparent that the relations between the President and his former Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Whitney, have been decidedly strained. At the time of the Ch cago convention it was said that Mr. Whitney could have anything he wanted under this Administration, and he was looked upon as the man the President would select for his successor in 1896, in case he did not again seek the nomination himself. Whether Mr. Whitney was growing too fast in Democratic favor to suit the President, or for some other cause, the fact remains that there has been a decided change in the atmosphere around the White

The seeming ingratitude of the President has caused more or less criticism, which has called forth an "explanation" from the friends of the Administration. It is now contended that Mr. Whitney-has been "unmasked" before the President by a "distinguished gentleman" who demoustrated to the entire satisfaction of Mr. Cleveland that the credit of shaping the work of the Chicago convention belonged to ex-Mayor Grace instead of his former Secretary. Here is the story as now given to the public:

given to the public:

The true organizer of the Cleveland campain was ex-Mayor Grace. He was greatly assisted in his plan of operation by ex-Secretary Fairchild, whose know edge of the location and disposition of influential Democrats throughout the country was invaluable. Supplied with an ex-austive list and the necessary letters of introduction, ex-Mayor Grace made a tour of the States, at his own expense, and personalty interviewed, argued with, convirced and converted every Democratic feeder and delegate. This carefully plainned and superbly executed missionary and educational work occupied a period of eighteen months. Mr. Whitney knew mothing about it until it was practically completed. The machinery for the nomination having been perfected those Mr. nation having been perfected, t was Mr.

Marking Advertiser, concerning the socalled pension reform methods of this Administration, will be read with interest by the old vetrous: The Pension Bureau is now in charge of Mr. Cleveland's appointre, Deputy Commissioner Murphy, who announces as one of the features of improperly borne upon the pension rolls.
When we consider the character of Mr. Cleveland's selections for office we are able o understand the significance of this plan-It has been remarked that the ex-Confederates, the Mugwumps and the Copperleads are the President's lavorites. The War Democrats and the patriotic men in the party are ignored while the offices are given to the three classes mentloned. that we realize now, what the public has been loath to believe, that the pension roll reform is to be intrusted to the men who were conquered by the Union soldiers, those who, too cowardly to take the field, sought to stab the country in the back and the Mugwumps who hate everything American and republican.

Take Indiana for instance. What merey will the Union veteran receive from the Copperhead postmaster in those sec tions where the Knights of the Golden Circle flourished and where the tomb stones which marked the graves of Union soldiers were painted red to celebrate Mr. Cleveland's election? Will that postmaster, snatched from the penetentiary to all a Government office and filed with the bitter virus of distryaty to the Re-public, be the proper man to pass upon-the justice of the claim of the veteran whom he would have assussinated if cour age and opportunity had, served him in

The scheme is shrewd v conceived to Calbounists and Mugwumps desire. They are not hunting for frauds. They are determined to punish the men who conquered the Rebellion.

It codupies nearly the entire northwest section of this building and comprises the choiceast and most valued treasures of the gaileries of the Princa Regent of Bavaria, the German National Gatlery and the Imperial Academy. The paintings are principally in oil, although there are some exquisite water colors. CHICAGO, May 1. It is impossible to deny that the work in the electricity building is still a long way from completion, and the building as compared to most of the others presents a barren and empty sepect. The local board of directors transferred to Machinery Hall the power plant, which occupies 180,000 squere lest of space, and much electric atreet railway material was assigned to the Transportation Building, and the apace assigned for it in Electricity was not again allotted. Numerous consoitations of great electrical manufacturing companies during the last few months have necessarily combined exhibits also, with the result that much space remains dynamos and other intricate machines is slow, and it will be some time befor-this department will be at its best.

In the center of the building, which a 345 by 600 feet, stands the Edlson tower. This is a giant column, painted white and inickly studded with incendescent lights it is 100 feet high. The effect is spiended, but is fully appreciated only at night. The General Electric Company of New York has grouped its exhibit around the Edison column to a depth of 100 feet. The Bel. The government exhibits of foreign countries are ranged in the north half of the building with frontages on the man aisle, the smaller nations being reiogated to the gallery. These exhibits, however, are in a demoralized state, not one being in periest rouning order. Gormany hus probably the most room and occurples a prominent position in the northeast corner. England has a large allotment corner. England has a large allotment of space directly opposite, and the schittis in an advenced stage of preparation. France lies in a long, narrow plot between these two countries, while Brasts, and Canada have smaller displays at the extreme west side of the building. New South Wales, Italy, Monsco, Spain and Austria have space in the gallery. All their displays are yet in smbryo, but the yromise well. It is impossible to confine the electrical exhibit to any one building, as the magnificent displays which will segiven nightly from the Administration given nightly from the Administration dome, the powerful search light on tac tower out in Lake Michigan, and other attractive features demonstrate. Where the Rising Generation is Cared For-The Roof Garden. Chicado, May 1. Ripples of infantile laughter and shouts of joyful surprise from childish throats echoed through one of the World's Fair buildings this mornof the world "rair buildings this morning, just about the time that the tens of thousands of adults outside were leading their voices to that monster shout of triumph that signalized the appearance of Grover Civeland and his noble and distinguished associates upon the platform in the Administration Plazs. The rising generation, the boys and girls that will flock in countless numbers to Jactson Pack this summer, have not been forgotten by the powers that be. They have a structure all to themselves, a randezvous where they can eat, drink and be merry and afterward go to sleep and wake up refreshed. Located in an advantageous position between the Women's and Ayricaltural-building is the children's home. It is two stories in height, exceedingly pretty from an architectural point, and surmounted by a goof garden. Here there is a chill rem's dopartment of public comfort, a library filled with children's interstate a little andisprim in ing, just about the time that the tens of lie comfort, a library filled with onli-dron's literature, a little auditorium in which magic tenterq and other exhibi-tions will be given, a gymnasium, and a nursery for the very little ones. possible degree.

But there was nothing about the building that took with the little ones this morning as much as the root gardon. It is enclosed with an trop railing and covered overhead with a wire notting. Vines are climbing around the railing, butter-flies and birds are flying overhead, the fles and birds are flying overhead, the feathered sengsters are warbling in glee and the growing flowers that are here in profusion seem to be giving out their sweetest fragrance. Up here is a big doll show, and a collection of toys of different nations, and here the little ones stand and drink their milk and eat their cake and candles, unmolested by careful mothers or santere aunts. If this morning's experiences are any criterion, the Ghildreu's Building is destined to be one of the most popular places on the grounds. The funds necessary for its erection and furnishing were contributed by the women of the various states of the Union, the Exposition authorities 'not being saked for a solltary cent.

Gatherings [That Will shape the Course of Civilization for Years.

CHIGAGO, May 1. While the inaugural ceremonies were in progress at Jackson Park this morning the Memorial Art Pelace, located on the Lakp Front Park within a couple of minutes walk from the business canter of the city, and which has been erected at a cost of six hundred thousand dollars, two-thirds contributed by the Art Institute of Chicago and the balance by the directory of the Exposition, was receiving its finishing touches; and this afternoon it was thrown open for the inspection of visitors from at home and abroad. Under the roof of this magnificant pile there will be held this summer the greatest earles of world's congresses that has ever been planned, such a bringing together of people of every clime as a few years ago would have seemed chimerical and bordering on the impossible. The leading idea of this feature of the Columbian Exposition, which is one of the Glerotion and control of a sub nuministration designated as the World's Congress Auxiliary, is to assemble the leaders of human progress from the civilized globe, not only for purposes of mutual acquaintance and the betablishment of fraternal relations, but to review the achievements that have already been made in the various departments of onuntortunates as may be taken thither for such treatment as demonstrable subjects. Four ambalance stations are in full operation today, one at the north end of the grounds, in the center of the state buildings; a second at the extreme southern end, peur Machinery Hall; a third near the Manufactures Building; and a fourth in the center of the Midway Plaisance. It will therefore be practicable for forty-one conferences with an attendance upon each ranging from three thousand to five hundred to be in sossion at the same time.

The results of the progress of and the magnitude of the indertaking may be gathered from the fadt, that anywhere from one, thousand to there

It was ton Nov. 18, 1865, that, the directors is of the Interest the inspices of which are attenually show of the expedicularity and man frontering resources of the Western charer had been held for many resisting the being the inspice of the Western charer had been conversed of the Western charer had been being from Fullding to the lake from the Building to the disource; of the american opinion to the disource; of the american opinion to the disource; of the subdivious of the state of the subdivious of the same from market of the subdivious or of those that with the subdivious or of those that with attacted instant and wide-spread attention, and early in the following year the board of promotion was organised in New England, with ex-Gov. Claffin of Massachaustic as president, for the purpose of securing congressional action favorable to the proposed commemoration. Through the efforts of this board a resolution was introduced in the senate on July 21, 1886, by Benator George F. Hone of Massachasetts for the appointment of a joint committee of fourteen to consider the advisability of holding a World's Fair. At this time the leading spirits in the movement favored the national capital as the location, and the crection of both tamporary and permanent exposition buildings. A favorable report was rendered, but for a while the matter lagged, and it was not until three years later that Chicago took up the matter in earnest.

July 22, 1889, the city council adopted a resolution instructing Mayor Cregler to appoint a committee of one hundred to proceed to the national capital and advocate the selection of Chicago as the location of the fair. Three weeks afterwards a number of citizans organized a corporation with the title "The World's Fair, 1892," which was chartered under the laws of the state of Hilnois with a capital stock of five million dollars. By this time

By this time the interest in the proposed commemoration had become national. On December 19 of the same year, Scantor Cullom of Illinois introduced the first World's Fair bill in the senate. For two months thereafter there was a fierce rivalry between the different cities that were easer for the honor of being selected as the site for the Fair. Chicago, New York, and St. Louis were the principal contestants. Delegation after delegation swooped down upon the capital, and life was made a burden to the legislators of both branches of the government. Each city was accorded a fair hearing to present its claim. In its last stages the contest became marked with considerable bitterness but the gony was ended

MININE I ROOM

In the meantims the directory had met and organized, and Lyman J. Gage received the distinguished honor of being elected as the first president. A spocial session of the legislature held in Jane of the same year authorized the city of Chicago to increase its bonded indebtedness by five millions of dollars in and of the enterprise. Thereupon the name of the corporation was charged to the World's corporation was changed to the World's Columbian Exposition, and its capitalization increased to ten millions of dollars.
The first meeting of the National Commission, a body brought into existence by mission, a body brought into existence by the act of congress, and composed of representative men designated by President Harrison, and by the governors of the various states and territories, was held in Chicago on June 27, 1830, and ax-bonator Thomas W. Palmer, of Michigan, was chosen as president. Bubsequently floorge R. Davis, of Chicago, was selected by this body as director general. The selection of a site was now in order. There was a fierce rivalry for the honor between the southern and western sections of the city, but the lack of ample incitities on the west side was evident from the start, and on July 2, 1830, the Board of Directors decided to locate the Fair at Jackson Park, a large open space on the southern outskirts, and having a frontage on Lake Michigan of one and a half miles, and containing, with the Midway Plaisance, which forms a connecting link between Jackson and Washington Parks, a total of over 600 acros. On Christmas Eve of 1890 President Harrison extended an invitation to the nations of the earth to participate in the Exposition and the responses were immediate and cordial. About the same time the Lady Board of Managers was brought into existence, and Mrs. Potter Palmer, of Chicago, selected as president of the body. The work of constructing the Mines and Mining Building, the first structure undertaken, was begun on July Michigan of one and a baif miles, and structure undertaken, was begun on July 2,1891, and from that time on the work of building up the White City was prosecuted with vim and vigor. One structure rose after another, and on October 21, 1892, in the presence of an assemblage of over one hundred thousand people the grounds and buildings were formally dedicated to the purposes designed by the act of congress. Up to the last financial statement the total expenditures on account of the Fair had reached the enormous aggregate of $18,000,000, a sum equal to twice the cout of the Paris Exposition. Of this amount over $15,000,000 had gone into the buildings of the White City, while the balance had been eaten up by general expenses outside of the construction. Shortly before the adjournment of congress a special appropriation of two and a balf the presence of an assemblage of over one special appropriation of two and a half million dollars in the form of souvenir silver coins, was voted by congress in sid of the enterprise. Five million dollars worth of bonds, due on January 1st of worth of conds, cue on lantery let of the coming year, were also issued and disposed of at a premium. It is an in-teresting fact that the gate receipts from visitors prior to the formal opening to-day reached the total of a quarter of a million dollars.

to-day President Cleveland, accompanied by Secretary Gessham, drove to the Irish village on Midway Plaisance Here he was entrialised by the Countess of Aberdee 3, assisted by Lady Arnot and daugh ter, Clam Arnot. After he had made the tou of the exposition, Mr Cleveland was thoroughly tired out. The rest of the time until the Special train started for Washington was spent in his car chatting with friends and visitors

Meanwhile the public was having full run of the grounds for the first time and was enjoying itself thoroughly it was cloudy all the afternoon, but no rain fell, and the crowd did not mind mud. From noon till the last gate was closed the broad avenues were alive with throng

The bands from Germany, England, France and Japan were stationed in their respective courts and the visitors were royally well comed. permits an occasional glimps of the tragedy which frequently lends a motive to the plot. Nothing could be more sombre in aspect and serious in purpose than the througe which daily besinge the corridors of the Winte House and the anter-rooms of the Cabinet officers and nightly congregate in the lobbies of the hotels. The horizon of life is very nirrow to them. Each has his office in yiew, sometimes a little one and oftener a prize which ought to dazzle his magniation, and nothing in the universe, not even a sometimes in the one and oftener a prize which ought to dazzle his imagination, and nothing in the universe, not even a naval rendezvous or a total celipse of the sun, is of the singhtest interest to him unless it has some little bearing on his prospects of success. But the more serious and determined the aspirant may be and the more decily absorbed in the pursuit of his particular ignis include, the funner he appears to the unfeeling outside observer. Nothing could be more rediculous than the sight of the waiting his of candidates for consulships who force their way into the office of the Secretary of State three mornings in the week. The applicants for consulates are a molley crew, some of them attenuated and seedy, others red nosed and plethoric but all with a look of solemn patience, which casks a shadow of gloom over the apartment. The room is surrounded with cushioned sofas, but not nearly enough to accommodate the crush

The committee thinks if the business is properly managed and, relieved from the renormous expense of interest and other extravagance charged upon its former agents it can be made a success and that is the interest of the creditor and stock bolders to unite upon this plan of re-organization

Each creditor has the choice of between 2) per cent. cash and 100 per cent stock in the tew company Those who accept the theroption are to assign the claims to L. D. Upton, of Manchester, N. H, as tustee, or such person as Mr Upton may designate. Mr Upon is a member of the investigating committee There was a consular candidate from

was the nonchalant response
Some of the applicants for consulships are persons of literary and artistic ambitions. One of these states in his application that he has a remarkable talent for painting, but that he is not able to secure the necessary instruction in his own Westera community, and he therefore asks for some position in one of the "art centres" of Europe where his talent can be cultivated. As an earnest of his latent genus he accompanies his application with a carefully elaborated drawing representing Cleveland and all the members of the Cabinet grouped in expectant attitudes. Cabinet grouped in expectant attitudes about the shores of a fish pond with poles in their hande

The Southerners who apply for office here outnumber the Northern applicants nearly two to one, but they seem to have less success than the more pushing Northless success than the more pushing Northern politicians in proportion to the numbers. The most remarkable thing about all the Southern applicants is their distinguished ancestry. Here is where the peculiar talent of the Southern Sonator comes into play. The political leader in the South has an acquaintance with the family history and connections of his constituents which to the Northern politician is simply amazing. The applicant for office is not presented to the appointing power as one who has worked for his party or gained distinction in any particular calling, but as the son or nephew or a distant relative cistinction in any particular calling, but as the son or nephew or a distant relative of some one of the famous men of his State. The more distinguished the ancestry, as a rule, the more insignificant the reward that will satisfy his ambition.

One of the most delightful papers in the magazine is written by Sir Edward Strachey on The Old Hall and the Portraits, a mimbiling old-fashioned paper on a country house, presumably that of the Stracheys. Mr. Lafcadio Hearn's puzzling paper on The Japanese Smile, will be found a novelty; and Professor Shaler's apper on European Peasants ar Immigrants considers a social question which it has become a commonplace to say is one of the most important of ous period. An article by Henry Lee on Frances Anne Kemble shows us this clever, passionate woman in an interesting light. B iss Perry's paper on Hawthorne at North Adams is another of those sidelights on Hawthorne's character which lead us to believe that no one has yet solved the real psychological problem which his nature presents. Professor James J.y. Greenough discusses The English Question in connection with the outcry about the inability of the average college student to write clearly and correctly. Some good poetry, and criticisms on Mr. William Watson's poetry, Flagg's Life of Allston, Jolian's Life of Joehua R.
